

MAY RELEASE THE LUNATICS

Financial Conditions at Hospitals Critical—Three of the Hospitals are running on Credit.

Nashville, Tenn., May 23.—Only the forbearance of the Knoxville merchants, who are willing to wait for the money until the appropriation bill is passed, is preventing the turning of 550 insane patients back to the counties from whence they came, according to a statement made here today by Dr.
Campbell, superintendent of the Eastern hospital for the insane, located at Knoxville.

"As long as the merchants are able to carry the bills, we will continue to run," said Dr. Campbell, "but as soon as they intimate that they cannot carry our credit any longer, I will have no option save to notify the different county judges that they have so many patients in the hospital and that they will have to make other provision for them. If they fail to take charge of them, we will have no option save to release them and allow them to go at large."

Dr. Campbell stated that already some of the merchants from whom they obtained supplies of various kinds were transferring their accounts to the banks, and the banks were carrying them. He said that he had not paid off his employees since the treasurer stopped paying money, but that he did not anticipate any trouble from them.

In addition to the 550 insane patients at Knoxville there are 650 in Nashville and about 700 at Bolivar, and all these institutions are confronted by the same fact, that the minute the merchants refuse to extend credit to them, they must turn their patients back to the counties from whence they come.

IN THE REALM OF FASHION

Dainty Linen Blouse.

This blouse of soft linen, ornamented with wide tucks and trimmed on the collar and cuffs with fine tucks and bands of transparent lace insertion, has a band of hand embroidery in front, which gives the effect of a fastening at the left side, and is very appropriate for wearing with simple tailor made coat and skirt costumes.

The Narrow Figure.

This is still the day of the slender woman. The silhouette is narrow and will remain so during the spring and summer. The skirts are still narrow, and to give freedom in walking Paris has adapted the fashion of slashing the skirts at the foot, the opening being from four to eight inches deep, but whether the American woman will accept these narrow slashed skirts remains to be seen.

SMART BLOUSES

MUCH ELABORATED.

Well Chosen Color Schemes the Secret of Good Dressing.

The day of the shirt waist, with its simple plaits and gathered sleeves, is done, for while at least, summer will bring back other blouses in white, but the colored one will continue to be made in the loose and sometimes careless manner that prevails today.

Most of them look as though they had no lining, no inside belt, no shoulder straps.

They seem ready to fall off, and yet they have a grace which is peculiarly their own. It is the grace of drapery and unconfinement.

The materials are arranged more according to line and color than according to fit and cut. In effect the blouses appear to be a combination of extra broad bands of various fabrics laid across and up and down the figure.
The sleeves seem to be an accidental part of the drapery dropping over the arm. They do not show any seams or outline the juncture of the arm and the shoulder.

A woman knows how annoying it is to find that she only has a blue blouse when she is wearing a brown suit.

The way to overcome this is to choose one's waists rather carefully after one has made up a plan for the summer wardrobe. If you make your blouses now in haphazard fashion you may be compelled to get suits and hats to go with them, which is putting the cart before the horse.

Some women keep to one color scheme as nearly as possible throughout the season. They know that blue and green and black possibly are their chief colors, and they hold to these regardless of what the dyers and the manufacturers produce. This is the secret of really good dressing, and you will find upon observation that it is the method of nearly all women who are conspicuous for taste in clothes.

If you know your own mind quite thoroughly in regard to the colors you will choose for your spring and summer suits, then it is quite wise to go ahead with your waist, but if not it is best to confine oneself to the choice of black, pin dotted with white, and dark bright blue, which goes with such a quantity of other colors.

The big bands are in very good style this year, and they are among the chief colors introduced on white materials. Golden brown, soft shades of green and many tones of blue are used, as well as cerise, pomegranate red and any of the new wine tones.

Pink is to be in high fashion this summer in all shades but the pastel ones. Killarney pink, coral, flame and watermelon are among the tones we will see most used on sheer white blouses of muslin, marquisette and bat-tiste. Finely dotted swiss will also come into favor as a fabric for waists, and it will have many adherents, as it wears and washes well and looks exceptionally attractive under linen suits.

FIRST WATERMELONS SHIPPED TO NEW YORK

Candler, Fla., May 19.—The first ear of this season's watermelons was loaded here yesterday for New York markets. It broke two records. The price it brought is $400, and this is the earliest date at which melons have been shipped from here. The vines were planted in January and covered during the cold weather.

NEGRO PREACHER IS LYNCHED

After Shooting His Wife and Wounding an Officer in Town.

Swainsboro, Ga., May 21.—Ben Smith, an old negro preacher, was lynched late last night after he had shot his wife and fatally wounded Deputy Marshall Neal Canady who was called to the scene. A crowd pursued the negro, caught him in a swamp and hanged him, filling his body with bullets. Then the mob dispersed.

This is the second lynching that Swainsboro has had within ten days, the other being John McLeod, the negro who shot and killed Deputy Sheriff Benton Woods.

Excitement is running high in this (Emmanuel) county and many negroes are planning to leave the county. The blacks are divided into factions and late Saturday night one faction dynamited the Odd Fellows hall of an opposing faction at Aldrian demolishing the building.
